

Mark supports Red Nose Day

City MP Mark Lancaster is celebrating Red Nose Day today by wearing his Red Nose at his constituency visits.

Red Nose Day raises money for the charity Comic Relief which was founded in 1985 by Richard Curtis and Lenny Henry who originally wanted to stop the famine in Ethiopia.

Events are being held across Milton Keynes to raise funds for the charity who help groups both at home and abroad.

Mark said, "Comic Relief is a great charity and I am delighted to wear my Red Nose in support around Milton Keynes today. I wish everyone luck in all of the fund raising events being held across MK today."
