

Invictus Games Send Off

In my Ministry of Defence role responsible for veterans, I was able to share in the excitement and anticipation with competitors for the second Invictus Games being held in Orlando, Florida.

Founded two years ago by HRH Prince Harry, the games for wounded veterans now has over 10 nations competing. This demonstrates just how powerful the medium of sport is in aiding our wounded service personnel in their recovery. I felt incredibly proud and honoured to share their achievements so far.