

Quizzed at MK College

It was back to college for me to meet with students currently studying for an HND qualification in Uniformed Public Service at MK College.

Careers in the police, prison and probation service, army, Royal Navy, RAF, Royal Marines, fire brigade or ambulance service are all catered for and it became apparent that this group were very focussed on their chosen vocation. A good line of questioning followed with informed and engaging conversations about the EU and the current migration debate.
